Army ROTC Sponsors Veterans Day Ceremonies

LTC Vernon R. Black, CPT Tommy T. Osborne, Cadet LTC Van C. Edwards, a Counter-guerilla Demonstration Team and The Pershing Rifles Drill Team conducted a Veterans' Day Program for 1200 children at Shadydale Elementary School, Houston, Texas. LTC Black was the principal speaker; Captain Osborne served as Master of Ceremonies. Cadet Captain Phillip Nickleberry's hand to hand combat Demonstration Team and Cadet LTC Billy Vance's crack Drill Team were well received.

After refreshments and a visit to several classes, the group returned to Prairie View for another ceremony.

Cadet LT Eddie R. Fowler began the second Veterans' Day Ceremony at 4:00 p.m. on campus in honor of all servicemen. A joint Army ROTC-Navy ROTC contingent stood proudly as Dr. Alvin I. Thomas, college president, spoke about the meaning and the challenge of Veterans' Day. Dr. Thomas challenged veterans, servicemen and cadets to do their utmost to preserve the peace and to build a better world. The college's senior administrative official, himself a veteran, then joined Cadet Orvin S. C. Roberson, AROTC Brigade Commander, in placing a wreath at the flag pole. In further tribute to our fallen heroes, salutes were rendered, a rifle volley was fired and taps were played.

The Veterans' Club President thanked the Army ROTC and the assembled dignitaries for the ceremony.

Community Services For PV Discussed

During a meeting conducted in the Prairie View City Hall on Wednesday night, October 6th, Prairie View city officials and other area civic leaders heard Dr. J. L. Brown of Prairie View A&M College and Mr. Worth Blake of Texas A&M University outline the objectives of the Prairie View Community Services Program. Mr. Blake, representing the Industrial Economics Research Division of Texas A&M University, is coordinating his local activities through the offices of Dr. Brown, Director of Continuing Education at Prairie View A&M College. The program is being partially funded through a Title I Grant administered by Colonel Wilbur Hurt, Director, Technical and Community Services Division of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System in Austin.

"Total community involvement should be our first intermediate goal," according to Mr. Blake. His division at Texas A&M University has been working in the areas of economic and industrial development in Texas communities for approximately 20 years. "Our first efforts will be to develop in Prairie View citizens an understanding and concern for community development," said Blake.

Those attending from Prairie View were Mayor Eristus Sams, Councilman E. B. Evans, Councilman James R. Muse, and Mr. K. Thiagarajan and Dr. J. L. Brown both representing Prairie View A&M College.

Other project objectives outlined during the meeting were: assistance in the preparation of HUD grant proposals, development of a workable recreation program, conduct of a community development work shop and the preparation of an attractive community brochure. "The program is progressing according to plan and is on schedule," related Dr. Brown.

LOVE CALL

Woman of my dreams, flame of my heart,
Song of my soul, come forth.
I await you in the empty chambers of my being.
Don't knock. Enter. I await restlessly.

Heed not the sirens of regression.
Enter and love me.
I await your entrance breathlessly.

Dr. Faggett Raps On Protest

by Ed Wendt

An article by Dr. Harry L. Faggett, head of Freshman Studies at Prairie View College, entitled "Protest" appeared in the "State Magazine", commenting on the relation of couress like Shakespeare to modern youth and the present day environment.

Dr. Faggett stated, "American students over the country sound-off on this key quite frequently. By way of radio, television, newspapers—wherever any freedom to advertise ignorance is permitted—invariably we hear comments on the inutility and the futility of Shakespearean studies, along with other subjects less defensible."

He further stated, "Over the years in this country curriculum-planning has been done by experts, highly-trained specialists in the areas of education... Certainly it is highly conceivable that students whose declamations are the loudest are not persons who have had special training or extensive experience in curriculum planning."

Feeling that one cannot read even the daily paper really intelligently without knowing a little something about the works of Shakespeare, Dr. Faggett went on to say, "The youthful PSEUDO-REVOLUTIONARY (not the 'way-out' hippie who often very well-read and often a poet in his own right—who digs that Shakespeare stuff, like outta sight, Man! — but the loud-mouth Species Rebellious Ignoramus) is not the type to be convinced by any argument except his own. His mind is made up."

Faggett, rapping on Elizabethan England, said there were no newspapers or periodicals and that the drama of Shakespeare and his fellows served that purpose. They were the ways of spreading "propaganda, fiction, and fact!"

Dr. Faggett feels that in this country it may shock people to learn that Shakespeare does relate to our environment, "even in matters of racial antipathy — BLACK vs. WHITE; Christian and Jew; or in love and romance; sympathy and sex; politics, social welfare or international intrigue. They may rediscover Othello and racism; Shylock in a 'stacked' court of law; murder, unrest; philandering, mob-violence, selective-service and warfare, on and on..."

What Am I

And as some spoke of the temple, how it was adorned with noble stones and offerings, he said: the day will come when there shall not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down.

Luke 21:5 & 6 RSV

In times of crisis, like the present, People who ordinarily would be swimming, rather unconcerned, down the tide of life, question their own identity. Their query is not so much, "Who am I?" They pretty well know the answer to that: "I'm so-and-so, child of Mr. and Mrs. so-and-so." But they want to know: "What am I? What ought I to be doing in life? Where am I headed? What is my destiny?"

A person wants to know whether he is animal or spirit or partly both, whether he comes from God or mere matter and blind forces, and whether he ought to be aiming at temporary gratifications or some longer-range goal.

The answer, of course, largely determine the way he acts, and the way he treats his neighbors. According to Sorokin, the sociologist, the view that we are no more than the product of biological and cosmic forces "leads men to treat their fellows, individually or in groups, as mere material atoms or electro-proton combinations, or biological organisms." And he asks, "If man is only an atom, why stand on ceremony in dealing with him?"

Not so very long ago, young people were expected to grow quietly in the foot steps and interests of their parents. Most of them tried to become better off; some did not try, and were considered indolent or much too idealistic.

Perhaps, as Charles Reich (Rike) maintains, it is the terrible specter of war haunting the world, hovering over so many young men and those who love them, which has dramatically challenged the complacency of the affluent American; perhaps it is the growing opportunity that has awakened the underprivileged. What ever the cause, youth is no longer accepting blindly the example and promises of elders; youth and increasing numbers of adults are asking more insistently than in many decades the basic questions.

Yet these questions are certainly not new. Isaiah thundered in his day:

The earth lies polluted under its inhabitants for they have broken the everlasting covenant." So ran the burden of the prophets from the beginning: man's confusion comes from his attachment to the temporary things of the world, and his neglect or even distaste for the things of God.

Movement

Is this the source of our present identity crisis? That we have been reading only in earthly terms our past and future and therefore our present pleasures and plans and that we now find these grievously insufficient? Is that why we now ask "What am I? Why am I here? What is my destiny? For what should I be striving?"

Jesus' words in today's text state clearly and emphatically the superiority of the eternal over the temporary, the spiritual over the material.

The people of his day were awed by the magnitude and splendor of the temple in Jerusalem. It was the architectural crown of their capital city and nation, the House of God primarily, but also a symbol of solidity and beauty and endurance of temporal things, yet Jesus warned of its utter destruction.

The sorrowful words were fulfilled to the letter. Not long afterward in 70 A.D. the Jewish people rebelled against Rome. A Roman army under Titus besieged Jerusalem while a million people were crowded in for the Passover. After four months of famine and a most bloody conflict, the attackers broke through the temple entrance with battering rams and fire. Maddened at the desperate defense and craving loot, the soldiers slaughtered their enemies and destroyed the Holy of Holies and everything in sight in spite of the contrary orders of their Commanders.

The Savior's warning of the destruction of the temple, and their sad and awful fulfillment have been for two thousand years the classic reminder of how passing are all earthly things whether material power and grandeur of cities and nations, or our pleasures and riches and honors as individuals.

But there is something further to our quest for meaning in life. Not only are these earthly things passing, they do not seem to satisfy while we have them. Good and important as they may be in themselves, they are simply not enough.

Reason demands that for a balanced and growing personality we must formulate answers to the great questions, and must find these answers satisfying. But we can hardly find complete answers without God. St. Augustine's discovery still holds: "Our hearts are restless, O God, and find no rest until they rest in thee."

Capt. Osborne Teaches Class

Captain Tommy T. Osborne, instructor in the Army Military Science Department at Prairie View A&M College, instructed a class on Military History at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma on August 17.

The presentation was made to eighty five officers recently assigned to ROTC duty in the Fifth Army area. In the presentation, Captain Osborne explained course content, general and specific learning objectives as well as instructor preparation and techniques of instruction. In the latter area, he stressed student oral and written reports, conference type instructions and the use of multimedia training aids. Guest speakers and field trips were recommended to improve learning. He also pointed out the necessity of including Black participation as an integral part of both World Military History and American Military History.

Captain Osborne is the first Prairie View A&M College faculty member to present a class in the Fifth U. S. Army ROTC Instructor Orientation Course. He was selected by LTC Vernon R. Black, Commanding Officer of the Army Military Science Department, to represent Prairie View at Ft. Sill, because of his experiences at Prairie View and his involvement at the U. S. Military Academy Military History Seminar. He wrote a monograph at that seminar which is scheduled for publication this year.

Dr. A. I. Thomas, President of Prairie View, expressed his sincere appreciation and congratulations to Captain Osborne for representing the College in the Army ROTC Unit.

Army Cadets Attend AUSA Convention

Cadets Larry Hamilton and Michael O. Jackson represented Prairie View A&M College in an outstanding manner at the Annual National Convention of the Association of the United States Army in Washington D. C., 10-13 October, 1971. The Convention was held in the Sheraton Park Hotel. The cadets were accompanied by Captain Tommy T. Osborne.

After staying overnight in Fort Sam Houston's VIP quarters, the Prairie View contingent flew to Washington in Lieutenant General Patrick F. Cassidy's plane. LTC Cassidy is the new Commanding General of the Fifth U. S. Army.

At the convention, Cpt. Osborne and the cadets attended all open sessions, visited the industrial exhibits and exchanged views with other cadets, senior officers and civilians. They obtained much information on new army programs and policies from the Secretary of Defense, Secretary of the Army and the Army Chief of Staff. Among noteworthy individuals with whom our cadets spoke at length were General William C. Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, Lieutenant General, LTG Patrick F. Cassidy and LTG Albert G. O'Connor, Commanding General, Third US Army. Cadet Hamilton discussed methods of initiating an ROTC Program with General Pelton of the Netherlands. They also met with many Prairie View graduates who were in the city for the convention and those who are assigned to the Military District of Washington.

After sight-seeing in the nation's capitol, Cadets Hamilton and Jackson joined CPT Osborne for lunch in the Pentagon with Colonel Alexander Hunt. Colonel Hunt, a Prairie View graduate, gave insights on the workings of information systems in the Department of Army.

Transportation and living expenses were provided without costs to the cadets. The convention was professionally and socially stimulating to cadre and cadets. Such trips are part of the Military Science Department's plan to provide us cadets with off campus learning experiences in areas of professional and social significance.

PV Students Help Teacher Corps Project

On Thursday, October 7, 1971, Jesse Diaz and Giron Hadnot, two students who work for the fire department at Prairie View A. and M. College, gave a very outstanding and rewarding talk on safety to a group of sixth and seventh graders at Waller Junior High School.

The following Wednesday, October 13, 1971, Melvin Price, a Business Administration major, spoke to the classes on "Keys to the Business World" and the "Army ROTC". Both of which were very interesting and brought numerous questions from the students.

This was part of the activities proposed by Mrs. Jacquelyn Sheely, Intern with the Prairie View Teacher Corps.

Each intern is to serve as "Teacher of the Month" and is to present something different and worthwhile to his students.

Mrs. Sheely chose as her project, "Home visits" and "Visitors from the College". Each week in the month of October, she has invited a student from the College to talk on his field of interest.

Although it is a little premature for sixth and seventh graders to know what they might be interested in when they get to college, it is hoped that these talks will pose as a stimulus for the future.

PV Tuition and Fee Charges Among Lowest

Seven Texas institutions are among the 13 public colleges and universities with the nation's lowest tuition and fee charges for students who are state residents, a survey released Saturday shows.

The study by the National Assn. of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges (NASULGC) and the American Assn. of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) surveyed 358 institutions, 307 of which this year raised charges in at least one category, tuition and fees, room or board.

The District of Columbia Teachers College, with tuition and fees of $70, was the AASCU school with the lowest charges for resident students.

Of NASULGC schools, Texas' Prairie View A&M College, with tuition and fees of $228, is fourth least expensive school for state residents. Ranked sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth least expensive, respectively, are Texas Tech University, $254; University of Houston, $256; Texas A&M University, $260; and the University of Texas at Austin, $262.

Local Residents

PV Meets Marines in Astrodome

By Joe Booker
When PV's Coach Jim Hillyer signed a contract to coach at PV the agreement was to play the Quantico Marines on Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Dome.

The Panthers will still play on Saturday night in the Dome, but instead of Quantico it will be the entire Uncle Sam Marine Brigade.

"We are expecting to play Quantico, but now there is only one team which is located in Quantico. Now we are playing the United States Marines. They can play anyone, a professional player or former college players," said Hillyer. One thing, according to Hillyer is the Marines shouldn't expect any handouts as the Panthers gave to Tennessee State.

"Tennessee has a good ball club and I was particularly impressed with their quarterback Joe Gilliam," said Hillyer. However, I thought we beat ourselves. We passed out touchdowns like it was Christmas time. We made too many mistakes," said Hillyer speaking about the Panthers, 42-20, loss to Tennessee State.

The Panthers stayed in the ball game until Tennessee broke loose early in the third quarter.

"I think the turning point was in the second half when when Tennessee threw two quick bombs, because up until then we were in reaching point," said Hillyer.

Hillyer is now making preparations for Uncle Sam's Marines and hasn't decided if he'll call in the Texas Rangers for help. He has hinted that he'll go along with running backs James Harris and Enoch Morgan who he thought were impressive against Tennessee State Harris, a 6-2, 200 pound former All-State fullback from Bay City thrilled the 15,000 announced Cotton Bowl crowd with his exclusive running or well as headon smashes up the middle.

The Marines will get a close-up view of PV's sensational pass catcher John Moore who has a habit of making clowns out of the enemy secondary. Hillyer, however, hopes that the Marines view of Moore will be from the Marines end zone. Here lately, the end zone has been one of Moore's favorite spot. He's been there 4 times this year. All total, Moore has 30 catches for 367 yards to increase his lead in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

PV Loses to Tennessee 42-20

By Harvey Curry
Prairie View Panther's secondary hadn't been scored against by air until Saturday night against Tennessee State.

Tennessee State's Joe Gilliam threaded the pass defense for three touchdowns. Gilliam led the Tigers to a 42-20 victory. The Panthers were down by only eight points at half time 28-20. The Panthers led in first downs 18 to 17, but were out of the game at the end of the third quarter when Tennessee State scored two quick touchdowns to take a 22-point lead. A total of twenty-five penalties were called in the game for a total of 317 yards, 162 of which were against PV.

One of the bright spots for Prairie View was the receiving of John Moore. He caught nine passes for 67 yards, raising his season's total to 30 catches for 367 yards, best in the Southwestern Athletic Conference. Hardy Malvo connected on 14 of 25 attempts for 121 yards including a touchdown pass to John Moore.

James Harris accounted for Prairie View's first points on a two-yard run, climaxing a 48-yard drive helped along by two pass interference calls against the Tigers. The Tigers fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Prairie View took over at the Tennessee State 18. Malvo scored on a five-yard run escaping four or five would-be tackles on the way. Luther Hudson swiped a Joe Gilliam pass for 35 yards.

companies as Ford Motor, Bendix Union Oil, Dow Chemicals, Western Electric will participate in group discussions with the students, from 11:00 a.m. in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom.

One feature of that day will be the returning to PVC of several alumni who hold responsible positions in business and industry. "Their previous participation," said Mr. Brutus Jackson, director of Career Planning and Placement, "has substantially increased the interest of the students in the program during recent years. We expect more of them this year than ever before."
